Who Are We?

For now, we are students at Andrean High School. We call ourselves Niners, short for Fifty Niners, derived from the fact that our school first opened in 1959, and from our address, 5959 Broadway, Merrillville, Indiana. But what are Niners?

Niners are students. We are enthusiastic, reluctant, outstanding, or struggling. But we return each year to continue the learning that will help us to become educated men and women in a world that will soon be our responsibility.

Niners are builders. We begin in freshman year to build the foundation that will help us gain admission to colleges and career fields, and to develop the values and habits that will structure our lives.

Niners are friends. We form friendships that last beyond the years we spend here. We encourage each other. We are generous in supporting missions and causes. We give our time and love to those who need us.

Niners are leaders. We participate enthusiastically in student government and school organizations. We compete energetically in athletic contests, in speech, essay, academic, and artistic events. Win or lose, we learn and grow from our experiences.

Niners are Christians. Our theology classes here are only part of a long process of spiritual growth that will continue into our adult lives. We seek to learn and do God's will and to build a faith that we can share with others. In a world of conflict and confusion, our faith keeps us strong and free to use fully the gifts that God has given us.

SUMMER

Summer is the period Webster calls "the time from the June solstice to the September equinox," but students have a very different definition. It is the time when we enter the adult world of work and play for a short time. Instead of being industrious students, we become athletes, tourists, and employees. Some students traveled to Paris and Greece either with parents or friends. Others chose to see sights closer to home, such as the Indiana Dunes or Great America. Ambitious Niners set some of their free time aside for summer sports. Of course, all students, whether working or playing, read the books assigned for the English department's reading enrichment program. After a summer of collecting souvenirs, snapshots, trophies, suntans, and spending money, we returned to Andrean in August, relaxed, refreshed, and ready for another year.

Egyptian Summer

During the summer the Andrean drama department produced the play, Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat. The plot, taken from the book of Exodus, concerns the adventures of Joseph, son of Jacob, who was sold into slavery by his jealous brothers. Through Joseph's ability to interpret dreams, he moved up the social ladder to a position as advisor to the Pharaoh. Years later, because of a drought in the land, Joseph's brothers went to the Pharaoh for grain. Unrecognized by his brothers, Joseph tricked them, but in the end they were all reconciled and shared in Joseph's wealth and prestige.

This summer production gave several Andrean students the opportunity to enrich their vocal and dramatic abilities. For senior Michele David, "The play gave me a constructive way to spend my summer and also a chance to meet many new people."

The Swing of Things

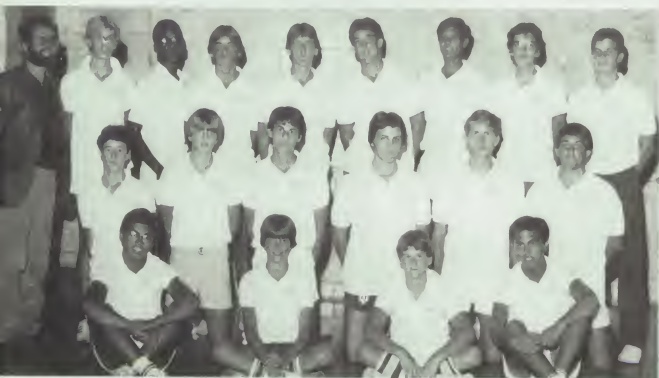

The girls' golf season was short but successful. The Niner squad capped its season with a seven and four record. MVP Carolyn Burke led the team with five medals through their pre-sectional play. In a tough season schedule, the Niners, despite losses to MC Elston and state finalist MC Rogers, produced victories over two powerhouses, Merrillville and Chesterton.

Though the team did not advance to regional play, Coach Landeck praised her team's season. "Our strong sophomore group really caught fire and added to the experienced upper class players to produce a great season."

Smashing Success

Coach Klora's netmen kept up tradition by posting a ten win, six loss season. After the team lost their first three matches, they bounced back to win eight in a row and eleven of their last fourteen. Leading the team were singles players Rodger Jao, Nick Kohl, and Jeff McMichael. The doubles teams consisted of Mike Rosta and Bill Zelin at number one doubles and Craig Teske and Roderick Jao at number two. The number two doubles team finished unbeaten with an impressive record of twenty-two wins. Both doubles teams did well in area tourneys, including the Highland and the Lake Station doubles tournaments. Coach Klora said, "It was an outstanding season."

Leader of the Pack

For most students, summer vacations last until the end of August, but not for the committed members of the Andrean boys' cross country team. They return to school at the beginning of July to start training for a grueling season which continues through October.

"We really strove throughout the entire season to reach our final record of twelve wins and only three losses," commented senior team member Mike Dailey.

Under the direction of Mr. Mark Horvath, the team finished solidly in second place at sectionals. After advancing to regionals, the team just missed a berth in the semi-state competition.

Off and Running

The Andrean girls' cross country team was plagued with difficulties throughout its premier season. "In our first year we did quite well individually with many firsts by freshman Frances McMahon and junior Kristen Laskowski," but as commented Coach Iatarola, "but as a team we had our difficulties with a record of only one win and nine losses."

Yet, despite this record, the season ended on a high note. MVP Frances McMahon advanced to the regional competition where she placed sixteenth, barely missing a berth in the state finals.

Leaders

Andrean's success depends upon leaders who make decisions and enforce rules. Rev. John Whitley, the school's principal, provides such leadership. He inspires all the students to do their best and rewards them for jobs well done. His encouragement and unwavering belief in Andrean and its students guide and inspire us. He is always prepared to listen to ideas or complaints and his door is open to any student who needs a sympathetic ear. His personal involvement with all of the students helps Andrean reach its highest potential.

Assisting Fr. Whitley are Sr. Christopher, Mr. Barancyk, Mr. James Jovanovich, and Mr. Rogovich, and the entire faculty, whose varied duties keep Andrean running smoothly.

First Taste of Andrean

Freshmen arrived on orientation day full of nervous expectation. First, they gathered in the gym to learn the rules and regulations. Next, they received schedules, bought books, and practiced opening their lockers with a little help from their friends. Then, the members of the class of 1988 gathered in the courtyard for the annual freshman picnic. As they entered, they were handed a name tag belonging to someone else. Then, they had to try and find that person. They played games, ate lunch, met their teachers, and made new friends.

Serving up a Victory

The girls' volleyball team completed the most successful season in Andean volleyball history. Lady Niners, who were ranked fifteenth in the final coaches' poll of the year, closed out the season with a 28-6 record, capturing the championships of the Merrillville sectional and Hammond regional, both firsts for an Andean volleyball team. The Niners, after winning the regional title, became one of the remaining sixteen teams in the state and advanced to semi state play, only to lose to the Plymouth Pilgrims, 15-8, 15-2. Those honored by post-season awards were: Kathy Schutz, Most Valuable Player; Paula Reardon, Most Valuable Player; Lynn Malocha, Most Improved; and Carrie LaMere, Pride, Hustle, and Desire Award.

Working Their Way Up

Being on the junior varsity football team is a difficult and unrecognized job, but it can be rewarding. Every Thursday, the coaches named one JV player from the offensive squad and one from the defensive squad Scout Players of the week.

Recipients earned stars for their helmets and the privilege of suiting up for the varsity game. At the end of the season, Jason Koulianos received the Best Lineman Award, John McCarthy received Best Back, and the Best Mental Attitude Award went to Mark Ring.

UPPER: Freshman football team members are: First Row, Coach Scheub, M. Pearson, M. Wagner, M. Barney, B. Spiller, M. Nigro, D. DeEspinoza, J. Metro, J. Allegretti, F. Ruiz; Second Row, B.  LOWER: Determined quarterback Don Doffin retaliates against the strong Rough Rider defense.

Almost . . .

The varsity football team achieved a six win, four loss mark to end its 1984 season. The Niners started out well, winning five of their first seven games, but a late loss to Bishop Noll extinguished their playoff hopes. The Niners played well throughout the season and received statewide honors for their effort. MVP Tim Pliske not only was an honorable mention in the 1984 UPI All-State Football team, but also was the new state record holder for the most field goals in one season. The other MVP, linebacker Mike Lesch, was named to the First Team of the UPI All-State Football Team. Of his team's success, Coach Ivan Zimmer commented, "Our football program is making steady progress toward excellence. This was our finest season!"

Spirit Week

Fr. Whitley says, "We are Andean . . . the best!" and "Andean students stand out among all others!" Spirit week gives us a chance to display the pride we have in our school. On special days students dress up in good clothes or dress down in jeans and sweatshirts with red and gold predominating. Through this we express the spirit of Andean. Spirit Week brings spirit to its feet!

Spirited Support

Miss Mullaney as moderator gives leadership and creativity to the booster club, which supports our athletic teams and plans the pep rallies to encourage spirit. Their fresh ideas have boosted the morale of our teams to new heights. The pom poms, cheerleaders, and other members paint signs to give life to hallways. The booster club's skits have included such memorable events as the volleyball game with coaches and teachers imitating our team and the kissing contest of blindfolded football players and their moms.

Spirit Unites Niners

Even before the Homecoming game, Fifty-Niner spirit began to ignite. Each day of the preceding week was set aside to boost our spirits. Dress-up Day and Red and Gold Day were two examples. On the day of the game, a pep rally encouraged players as well as fans. On Friday night many students were part of the parade, which included the prize-winning junior float.

Throughout the first half of the game, queen finalists, Jody Attar, Gail Francis, Carrie LaMere, Sylvia Lopez, and Mary Puntillo, awaited the announcement of the winner. Finally at half-time, Sloan Metz, 1983 queen, crowned Mary Puntillo, the student body's choice for 1984 Homecoming queen.

Generating Spirit

Cheerleaders and poms are always there, come rain or shine, sleet or snow, to cheer on their teams.

Cheering at games once or twice a week, however, is not all they do.

Varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders attended United States Cheerleading Association camps at Valparaiso University and Indiana University. At Valparaiso the varsity squad received three first place awards and an all-around first place award that qualified them to compete nationally. The junior varsity attended camp at Indiana University, where they received three first place awards, a fourth place all-around, and a special spirit award. Miss Kathleen Burke, the squads' sponsor, expressed her feelings about the girls with a smile: "They're good kids. Mine is an exciting job; it's fun, and I'm having a good time."

The Ninerettes, through moderator Sr. Jane, also have a lot to do with bringing out the proud spirit of Andrean. The poms practice three times a week to perfect the winning routines they perform. During the summer, the poms went to camp where they competed and qualified for Nationals. Both the cheerleaders and the Ninerettes are responsible for generating much of Andrean's school spirit.

It's A Tradition

According to Mr. House, German Club moderator, Oktoberfest was first celebrated in honor of King Ludwig I's 1810 wedding in Munich, Germany, during the last week of September. The German Club recalls the Oktoberfest in its own way with rootbeer, pretzels, and authentic German steins. What started out as one man's wedding is now a fun-filled festival for all to enjoy.

Guys and Dolls

The fall play, Guys and Dolls, was the first ever to be presented in the girls' gym, chosen for its good acoustics.

Guys and Dolls is a musical set in Havana and New York during the late forties and early fifties. The main characters are Sky Masterson, Sarah Brown, Nathan Detroit, and Miss Adelaide.

Nathan, who runs a floating crap game in New York City, and his girlfriend, a night club dancer, have had a romance going on for years, and Adelaide wants to get married. Sky Masterson, Nathan's friend, is a gambler who makes a bet with Nathan that he can convince Sarah, the head of the local mission, to go with him to Cuba. Sky wins his bet, and Nathan and Adelaide finally get married.

The Hot Box Dancers were played by Shirley Calloway, Judy Ryan, Michelle Jao, Dawn LoVerde, Helen O'Connell, Jeanie Ring, Eva Pena, and Jeanne Walsko. The Crapshooters were played by Dan Oates, Sam Bunjan, Marty Kopil, Tom Mueller, J. Porterfield, and Brian Van Buskirk. The mission dolls were played by Toni Amico, Annette Jagiela, Allison Porterfield, Kate Sullivan, and Judy Ryan.

Reflections

Retreats are designed to enable students to take time out from daily routine for self-searching and renewal of spiritual values. They also create an atmosphere of community and help classmates form closer friendships. They are organized and supervised by teachers and students who are members of Andrean's active Campus Ministry.

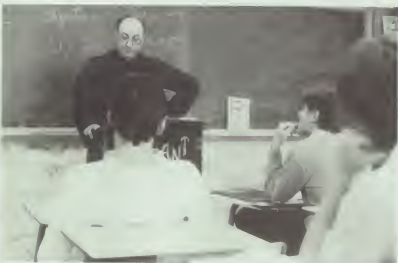

Although other classes had only one retreat, seniors had their choice of several — three overnight trips and a regular one-day retreat. Seniors who attended the Friday morning through Saturday afternoon retreats at Camp Lawrence in Valparaiso found them particularly meaningful and enjoyable. Organized activities such as hikes and discussion sessions filled the weekend schedule. Most of the students on the retreat agreed that they learned more about themselves and others on the weekend than they could have on a regular in-school retreat.

Andrean excels in preparing students for college, and Mrs. Dustman's advanced placement biology and advanced placement chemistry, taught by Mr. Iatarola, enable college-bound students to get a head start, learning new science lessons and skills and earning college credit. Fast-paced learning and challenging labs make these courses tough but rewarding. Mrs. Dustman agrees that AP students have to work hard to earn their grades. Members of the two classes can attest to that.

"I have my sights set on a career in chemical engineering," says Maria Treyes, "and AP chemistry has given me a glimpse of how tough and how exciting my college courses and my future career will be."

All in a Night's Work

The term paper is a wonderful experience, created by the international coffee cartel, intended to boost sales. Teachers usually give students about a month to complete their papers, but that small fact is irrelevant. The average student's schedule is somewhat less extensive:

One month before deadline: Student becomes emotionally prepared for the paper.

Two weeks before deadline: Student picks topic.

Ten days before deadline: Student buys note cards, goes to library, finds out what other friends are doing their term papers on.

Eight days before deadline: Student goes back to library, borrows library card from friend, checks out books on term paper subject.

Seven days before deadline: Student begins taking notes on notecards. School attendance drops drastically. Such tasks as clipping fingernails, cleaning bedrooms, and watching the news suddenly become important.

Six days before deadline: Student begins to acquire a taste for coffee and compares hours of sleep received with that of friends.

The person who can go two days without sleep is considered a hero and role model. Coffee company stocks rise dramatically.

Five days before deadline: All other schoolwork becomes irrelevant.

Three days before deadline: Student digs typewriter out of attic and attempts to learn how to type in one night — gives up and reverts to the one-finger method.

Two days before deadline: Student's skin tone changes dramatically.

Twenty four hours before deadline: Student begins typing at five p.m., continues until seven the next morning.

Day of deadline: Student is in library throughout homeroom and half of first hour.

Hour of final destiny: Student stumbles into classroom, vows to start earlier next year, turns in paper, sits down, lapses into coma.

What does this exercise teach the student? Many things, including how to research, take notes, and write a research paper. It also teaches students one important rule: Never put something off until tomorrow if you can put it off until the day after tomorrow.

LOWER: Senior, Shibly Nabhan, searches for information for his term paper. UPPER: Early morning hours find Carol Smallman frantically typing the last page of her term paper.

Playing the Odds

Although Andrean has no slot machines or roulette wheels, in one class the luck of the die determines part of the student's grades. Like the high rollers in Las Vegas, Father Doser's math students experience tension and suspense. Father rolls the die each day, and only those in the row whose number appears have to turn in their homework. Those who failed to finish their homework before class hold their breath until the die comes to a halt. Sighs of relief and moans of agony indicate whose row was called. Thus, each student has only a one in six chance of handing in homework each day.

Father Doser enjoys the fact that "I only have to correct one sixth of the class's homework a night, and I can still keep a fairly close watch on all of my students."

Father Doser has been using this procedure for years, and most of his students agree that even with the roll of the die, their math grades almost always average out fairly.

With many careers requiring business skills in today's world, the Andean business department prepares its students with a wide variety of elective courses. The business department, headed by Miss Roseann Trapane, offers such courses as typing, accounting, finance, and shorthand. Mrs. Beck's Office Procedures course allows students to experience the business world first hand. The class participates in a two week on-the-job program sponsored by the Merrillville Chamber of Commerce during second semester. They have also learned valuable word processing skills on Andean computers.

All business courses at Andean prepare the student for the fast-paced business world which students will encounter following graduation. In a world in which nearly all careers involve some form of business, good business training is advantageous.

Michele David reviews her shorthand notes.

Returning to BASIC

As computers change the world, Andean accommodates to the change and benefits from it. With a computer course a requirement for graduation, every student must take at least one semester of computer literacy or computer programming during his junior or senior year.

Andean uses computers to help students, and students use computers to help Andean. Basketball team statistician David Chary, for example, used his experience with computers to make a program to record statistics for every game.

Filibuster

Although not all Andean students will pursue careers in government, seniors experienced a lesson in politics in Mr. Horvath's government classes. For two weeks, class members became a mock Congress, submitting bills which were discussed during class. Fiery debates between Democrats and Republicans resulted in either the passing or killing of the bills. Bills concerning illegal immigration, missing children, and voting procedures were among those passed. After a bill was passed by a voice vote or hand count in each class, it went to "President Horvath" for his official signature. Besides being fun and a welcome break from lectures and lessons, the mock Congress gave seniors a look at how America's government works.

Learning Language

Foreign language versions of the popular games of Monopoly® and Scrabble® can enhance learning for foreign language students. Amidst the demanding tasks of learning a new language, these games bring challenging fun and valuable lessons. A game of Scrabble® in Spanish class or the friendly competition of German Monopoly® helps break the monotony of declensions, dialogues, and grammar lessons. They help students learn new words and use their knowledge of the language in practical situations.

Latin Lives

Although Latin is presently a lively part of Andean's curriculum, it was once nearly obsolete. This renewal of the language occurred following a decline of Latin in the centuries after the fall of Rome. New languages were derived from Latin as it began to disappear, and the Catholic Mass was the last remnant of Latin as a spoken language. Latin in the classroom also declined over the years. But Latin at Andean has made a comeback because of the dedicated work of Sister Paul, and Andean now offers three years of Latin. Although Latin students may never speak Latin in their daily lives, it has many practical uses, such as in the medical field where many words are based on Latin.

Lunching

Visitors at Andean are surprised to find that our cafeteria is segregated — boys on one side, girls on the other, a tradition that dates back to the days when Andean was coeducational rather than coeducational. The rule separating boys and girls no longer exists, but students still enjoy the relaxed atmosphere of all-girl and all-boy dining areas.

Occasionally, someone breaks with tradition and gravitates to the square tables by the windows where coed dining has become a custom — perhaps even the start of a new tradition.

Another surprise awaiting an outsider who ventures in on Tuesdays is that many early lunchers are actually consuming cereal and milk.

"Ten-thirty is too early for lunch!" says Bob Fazekas. "At that time in the morning I want Captain Crunch, not ravioli."

Science students who have D lunches every day complain that the menu is often curtailed by the time they reach the cafeteria and that "all the good stuff is gone." But D lunch has its compensations. Senior Cathy McGuckin says, "At least we have four extra minutes to relax and enjoy whatever is left."

The biggest surprise awaiting a visitor, however, would be the round of applause given spontaneously to any poor soul who drops his tray — the bigger the crash, the more thunderous the applause. Real clods get standing ovations.

LOWER RIGHT: Mike Fagen brings an armful of milk for Tuesday's breakfast.

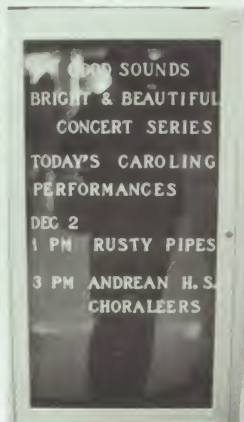

Harmony

Guided by two new teachers, Mr. Greg Jasek and Mr. Brian Carmody, the music department maintains a lively schedule. The band, directed by Mr. Jasek, performed at Southlake Mall at Christmastime, played for Bishop Gaughan's induction Mass, and provided music for the many school Masses and pep assemblies. In addition to marching performances at football games and duty in the stands, the concert band also presented two concerts for the public. The choir, led by Mr. Carmody, took part in both concerts, performed at the Mall, and toured Catholic grade schools. They also provided music for school Masses. According to Sylvia Lopez, choir president, Andean's music program has helped all its participants improve their musicianship, both as individuals and as a group.

PEER MINISTRY

Fun and Fellowship

The peer ministry and the mission club members have dedicated themselves to the service of others. The mission club, with the assistance of Fr. Cerretto, raises money for a leper colony in Bombay, India; sisters in Bolivia, Chile, and the interior of Brazil; a mission in Kenya; a seminary for future priests in Mexico; and the Slovak Institute in Rome, where clergy are educated to go behind the Iron Curtain.

Peer ministry assists during class retreats. With the guidance of Mr. Cessna and Miss Burke, they give advice or just a listening ear to fellow students. Senior Tracy Erby, a peer ministry member, says, "Every school needs a peer ministry because teens are more open to their peers than adults are."

Brushing Up

Imagination, patience, and creativity . . . these are the basic ingredients which are vital to artists. With these ingredients, an artist is able to grasp an abstract idea and from it, create a concrete object which conveys his feelings. Many artists at Andean are doing exactly that. Working painstakingly in a fine arts course, artists are able to express themselves through such media as charcoal, watercolor, clay, and even stained glass. Through those media, one is able to know the artist, for as John Ruskin said, "Fine art is that in which the hand, the head, and the heart of a man go together."

Building Up

Andean's industrial arts program prepares many students for their future. These classes, taught by Mr. Billick, give students hands-on experience for future career opportunities in architecture, engineering, and building trades.

Freshman Alex DaSilva says, "With the education I'm getting here, I plan on going into an industrial occupation." Many of Mr. Billick's former students are now architects and engineers, working throughout the United States.

Direction

During our four years at Andean, we encounter many adults who will help us to shape our futures. Perhaps the most important of these persons are our guidance counselors, who help to mold our schedules at Andean and to send us forward into rewarding careers. Mr. Nicolini, Sr. Alfred, and Mr. Edwards help us make many crucial decisions that are necessary on the road to a trade, career, college, or university. We have come to count on them not only for their guidance, but also for their friendship. They offer advice which comes from experience, and they help us to adapt to our rapidly changing high school years. Our counselors help us schedule our yearly classes, assist us in finding jobs, alert us to financial aid opportunities that some colleges may offer, and encourage us to develop our intellectual potential. Mr. Nicolini believes that counselors "get to work with Andean students on a one to one basis and are then better able to meet their specific needs."

Lively Library

"In memory of Robert L. Birchler II," is the inscription on the base of a sandpiper carved by Mr. George Orlich, a neighbor and former teacher of the late Bob Birchler, Andean class of 1980. Bob was killed in 1984 in an auto accident near Bloomington, Indiana, where he was a student at Indiana University. A song Bob wrote, "Only One," is affixed to the base of the carving. Orlich presented the carving to the Andean library and the Birchler family as a lasting memorial to Bob.

Fitness And Fun

Most freshmen and juniors welcome their semester of gym class wholeheartedly as a break from the monotony of academic classes. Under the direction of Miss Bombassaro and Mr. Pishkur, students learn everything from yoga and aerobic routines to the fine points of softball and soccer. Gym gives students a chance to release tensions and at the same time to keep in shape.

Practical Living

Cooking and sewing, the basics of independence, are old ideas that have survived as an important part of Andean's curriculum. Mrs. Hevel teaches these courses and also a course in home management. Through these domestic courses, students learn to be self-sufficient and save money by cooking and sewing for themselves.

Artistic Challenge

The art club faced a new challenge when the student council asked them to develop and design a new school mascot. With the help of moderator Mr. Listro, they polled the student body and came up with the Crusader, complete with costume and sword.

Other art club projects that served the whole school were the decoration of windows at Christmas and the task of painting a colorful backdrop for the music department concert.

On other holidays, members painted little figures and designs on student faces — pumpkins for Halloween, hearts at Valentine's Day, shamrocks for St. Patrick's Day — and collected twenty-five cents for each. The money was well spent on club materials and an outing to the Art Institute of Chicago.

UPPER: Mr. Listro, art club moderator, proudly presents the Andrean Crusader, the new mascot. LOWER: Beth Koke, Elicia Metz and Amy Bernat decorate the art room window at Open House.

Back in Business

Under the leadership of Miss Trapane, Andrian's business club has been rejuvenated and provides an indispensable service for many students. Given two days' notice, members will type papers at the reasonable rate of seventy five cents per page.

"I have really benefited from this new typing service because I haven't had a chance to learn to type," said junior Teresa Gianoli. The new program has also helped other students who don't have time to type their own papers. Best of all, however, the typing service helps members earn extra money for the club's treasury.

CHess CLUB

Silent Warriors

Every Thursday afternoon Andrean's thinking men gather in room 219 to struggle on checkered battlefields, armed only with chess pieces and sharpened wits. Mr. Giorgio is moderator.

UPPER: David Zielinski and Mike Chary kibitz as Mr. Giorgio and Steve Fardy engage in friendly combat. MIDDLE: Pamorn Kulsakdinun and David Zielinski do battle while Matt Zima waits his turn. LOWER: Kevin Wislo, Tom Williford, and Robby Vega demonstrate that chess players can be comfortable anywhere.

Latin is Immortal

Excitement sparked the Latin Club as members began arrangements for a ten day trip to Rome, marking the club's first-ever trip abroad. Plane tickets, passports, reservations, and new wardrobes were all part of important preparations for the trip. On April 3, Andean travelers, led by club moderator, Sister Paul, got their first view of the country in which their studies originated.

UPPER RIGHT: Cleverly disguised as Roman goddesses, Latin Club secretary

Documenting Our Days

Chicago Tribune stand aside, New York Times beware; the Andreas Acropolis is here. With eight publications during the school year, editor Matt Ligda and his staff keep students and faculty informed and entertained. With the assistance of Mr. DeFabio, the newspaper's moderator, they bring us news of academic and extracurricular achievements and entertain us with special features such as the Valentine letters.

ACROPOLIS

Capturing Time

According to yearbook moderator, Mrs. Joyce Thomas, "The Decussata is a varsity sport." In organizing a yearbook, dedication of both the individual and the whole staff is necessary. But the most important factor is time. Staff members spend many of their after school hours and numerous Saturdays and holidays in the yearbook room. Although the yearbook staff is chronically tired at the end of each grueling work day, it is always rewarding to see the final results: a book of lasting memories. The assistant moderators are Mr. Mark Strimbu and Mrs. Petra Steele.

Natural Wonders

The scientific minds of Andean get together to discover secrets of science. The science club offers members in-depth information about special fields of interest outside their regular science classes. Mrs. Dustman, moderator, has helped officers and members. Seminars, workshops, and lectures highlight the club's agenda.

Officers are Nileema Pargaonker, president; Betsy Peterson, vice president; Pat Sullivan, secretary; and Cynthia Becht, treasurer.

Niner Team Wins JETS Trophy

An eight person Andrean team picked up a third place trophy at the Junior Engineering Technical Society competition held on February 21, 1985, at Purdue Calumet Campus.

Andrean, with a little over seven hundred upperclassmen, barely qualified for the larger high school division. The team, however, managed to prove itself more than capable with its outstanding third place finish out of nineteen schools.

This win was a tremendous improvement over a ninth place finish the previous year.

In this competition, a team consisted of up to nine members who work together on seven tests which included physics, mathematics, biology, computer science, engineering graphics, chemistry, and English. Each team had a separate classroom and two and a half hours to complete the tests.

Although the Andrean team had an overall score of only 48.45%, it was an excellent one because of the difficulty of the individual tests. The key to the team's victory was consistency. In only one category of the seven did Andrean place in the top three, but because they placed well in five of the remaining six categories, Andrean managed to capture its third place finish.

S.A.D.D.

Help from S.A.D.D.

A chapter of S.A.D.D., Students Against Driving Drunk, has been formed at Andean. As members of a national organization, president, Robin Gill; secretary, Tricia Thorn; vice president, Carrie Thorn; treasurer, Andrea Clay, and many other concerned students inform their fellow classmates of the dangers of drinking and driving. With the assistance of Sr. Marlene, the S.A.D.D. members have inspired students with poster buttons, and guest speakers.

Le Cercle Français

Andean's French Club has always prided itself with providing opportunities for its members to learn about French culture outside of the classroom. Members enjoy sampling French cuisine, including crepes, pomme-frites, and croissants at French restaurants in Chicago such as L'Escargot and Magic Pan. The Christmas season proved to be especially festive as the club members decorated a live tree in the French room and held a party featuring French cookies and carols. Under the guidance of Miss Palaiologos, French students not only learn about the French language but also gain experiences in the French culture.

UPPER: Aileen Blake uses her French vocabulary skills to ask Mia Costanza for certain types of food. LOWER: French club officers are: Nikki Zelin, Nanette Kalimir, Jackie Dakich, Miss Palaiologos (French club moderator), and Mary Weber.

FRENCH CLUB

With joy and happiness, even in the midst of our sorrow, we celebrated the entrance of Father Norman Murphy into eternal life. Father Murphy died on March 17, 1985, in St. Anthony's Hospital after a long illness. Father Murphy illuminated and warmed many lives with the rays of his love and the warmth of his smile. Andrean has lost a true friend, a treasured colleague, and a great priest. The funeral services took place on March 21, 1985, in Father's home town of Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

Compassionate Council

The Andean student council plays a prominent part in our daily activities. From charity fund raisers to rec night, student council president, Jeff Attar, vice-president, Gail Francis, treasurer, Cam Stram, and secretary, Mia Costanza and the representatives work for the benefit of both students and faculty. In the fall they organized a jeans and sweatshirt day, with a twenty five cent donation from each student going to Mr. Listro's son Josh, who developed leukemia during the summer. Mr. Listro gave the $250 to the Leukemia Society of America saying, "It's more important for Josh and other kids to have money invested in research. That's what's going to count in the future."

The student council also planned two other jean days to raise money for the starving in Ethiopia. These are just two of the many student council activities which demonstrate its dedication to and support of the school and its entire family.

UPPER: A grateful Mr. Listro and his son Josh receive a plaque from student council president Jeff Attar and a leukemia foundation representative. LOWER: The student council looks on as Barbie Swanson proposes a bill.

STUDENT COUNCIL

UPPER: Tim Fealy proposes that the student council donate funds to the yearbook to buy some new photography equipment. LOWER: Every Wednesday, student council officers, president, Jeff Attar; secretary, Mia Costanza; vice president, Gail Francis; and treasurer, Cam Stram; conduct a meeting.

Spreading the Spirit

During the Christmas season many Andrean students, through various activities, helped to spread the spirit of Christmas in their communities.

Junior class president, Bob Boby, proposed that the Andrean Student Council purchase outdoor Christmas lights to decorate the courtyard's evergreens in order to heighten the holiday spirit at Andrean. A group of students gathered after the junior retreat, lugged out the ladders, and hung the lights.

Dressed as Santa Claus at the Washington Park Mall, senior Chris Hafner brought Christmas joy to many youngsters with his jolly appearance. Chris said, "I truly felt the real spirit of Christmas because I had the chance to make little children happy. The smiles on their faces and the sparkle in their eyes made taking my time to play Santa worth every minute."

Grapplers

Despite impressive individual records of 17-7-1 and 15-5-1 by seniors Mike Lesch and Eric Turner respectively, Niners closed their wrestling season with a disappointing 3-12-1 record. Nevertheless, the team did well in sectionals, capturing several individual titles. Eric Turner, Mike Lesch, Doug Katich, and Brian Kellenberger placed first in their divisions. These four advanced to regional competition where Turner took second place. At semi-state Turner lost a close match to the eventual state champion. For Turner's outstanding season, he was awarded MVP honors. Most Improved honors went to Mike Bujdoso, while the JV MVP award went to Tom Williford.

Growing Menace

The 1984-85 girls' basketball team was one of the most successful in Andean's history. Ending the season with an impressive 18-3 record, the Lady Niners provided continuous excitement for their loyal fans. The highlight of the season was a decisive 43-37 win over eventual state champions Crown Point to whom Andean lost in the sectional finals. For their gallant efforts four Lady Niners were honored on the final night of sectionals. Aileen Blake and Carolyn Burke were named to the second All-Tourney team, and Lynn Hevezi and Acquannetta Washington were named to the first All-Tourney team. Rounding out the season's honors, Lynn Hevezi and Carolyn Burke were named the team's MVP's, and Lisa Schumann, the most Improved Player.

Shooting Stars

Through hard work and persistence, the junior varsity and freshman basketball teams successfully finished their seasons with records of 11-9 (JV), 11-10 (freshman A-team), and 6-5 (freshman B-team). Most successful was the freshman A-team, with an outstanding finish in the annual Holiday Tournament. The team easily beat Harrison and Gavit in early round play and went on to capture the second place trophy.

Earning season awards on the freshman teams were Jason Crawford, best free throw percentage, Lance Washington and John Fife, most rebounds, and Mark Regan and Todd Fitzgerald, most assists. On the JV level, awards went to Tom Bennett, most rebounds, Peter Rogovich, most assists, and Matt Hanlon, best free throw percentage.

A Fight to the End

"A successful season is not always determined by a team's record. Instead it is determined by the team's attitude throughout the season." So commented Coach Joe Huber, the leader of the 1984-85 boys' basketball team. Although their final record was only 5-16, Coach Huber felt that the season was very successful, for despite a slow start, the squad came back and won three of its last four games. Seniors Tom Richter, Jeff Attar, and Dave Carr, who was the team's MVP, unified team efforts, and made the Niners an increasing challenge for many region teams. Coach Huber commented, "They fought to the end and didn't quit. I'm proud of them."

Rec-night Rivalries

"Rec-night is a great way to unwind from a long week of school," says freshman, Christina Thiel. Rec-night helps to spark class unity and healthy competition between the classes. With activities ranging from ping-pong and volleyball to basketball, wallball, and dodgeball, all students can participate in a sport which they enjoy.

On October 2, The Most Reverend Norbert F. Gaughan became the new bishop of the Gary Diocese in an Installation Mass at Holy Angels Cathedral. Andrean students and faculty extended a more personal welcome to Bishop Gaughan on October 9.

Presiding over Bishop Gaughan's installation were Joseph Cardinal Bernardin, Archbishop of Chicago, and Archbishop Pio Laghi, Apostolic Pro-Nuncio to the United States. The Archbishop of Indianapolis, The Most Reverend Edward T. O'Meara, installed Bishop Gaughan.

Bishops and other clergy members came from all over the country to witness the event. Some of the same celebrants had attended the installation of Gary's first Bishop, The Most Reverend Andrew G. Grutka.

Andrean and Bishop Noll each sent twenty-five students to serve as ushers for the Mass. The choir, musicians, and servers included members of various diocesan institutions. The honor guard included the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, Abraham Lincoln Assembly, and the Father Sorin Assembly.

A grateful Bishop Gaughan thanked everyone for all they had done to welcome him to the diocese.

On Tuesday, October 9, the new Bishop celebrated his first Mass at Andrean. During his homily on meaningful relationships Bishop Gaughan created a very relaxed atmosphere among the students and faculty. Andrean's concert choir, directed by Mr. Carmody, and the Andrean band, under Mr. Jasek's direction, performed at the Mass.

Bishop Gaughan received several gifts from the school after the Mass. Sophomore class vice-president Dawn LoVerde gave him an Andrean jacket. Junior class president Bob Bobby then presented Bishop Gaughan with an Andrean cap, and Cary Wood followed by giving him a chalice donated by the Andrean community. Jeff Artar, student council president, finished the ceremony by asking Bishop Gaughan to wear an Andrean pin at the Homecoming game.

Exchange Student

Through the International Rotary Youth Exchange Program, Daniel Grosch, an eighteen-year-old from Cologne, West Germany, arrived at Andean for second semester, intriguing fellow students with his accent and continental clothes. The second child in a family of six, he plans to follow his father's career as an engineer.

"The high drinking age was a shock to me," he explained. In most European countries, the drinking age is about sixteen. Teenagers are expected to act like responsible adults regarding the use of alcoholic beverages.

Besides soccer and skiing, Daniel's favorite pursuit is traveling. He has been to France, Belgium, Britain, Spain, Italy, Greece, and Switzerland. Though his year in the United States counts as a school year on his record, he still must attend two more years of high school when he returns home.

LOWER RIGHT: Linda Gzernoch and Jamie Gagan watch anxiously as Andrean takes on Lew Wallace.

HIT AND RUN

Andrean's softball team hit its way to a great start with four straight wins. Although the team's final record was just slightly over .500 (10-9), Lady Niners displayed their talent with a three game sweep in the Merrillville Tournament, defeating Lafayette Jeff, Washington South Bend, and Merrillville.

For the second year in a row, the team voted Junior Nita Dyczkowski most valuable player, and Senior Jean Ryan was honored for best mental attitude. Players who showed the most intensity were senior Kathy Schutz and junior Aileen Blake.

SECTIONAL CHAMPS

After a slow start of three wins, three losses, the boys' varsity baseball team fought its way to a record 29-7 season. Winning the last ten games of the season, the Niner nine went on to take both games in the Lake Station sectional. At East Chicago, Andrean lost — by one run — to regional champs from Munster in the second game.

The Andean soccer team ended its best season with a 12-3 record. Several factors contributed to this impressive conclusion. The team gained the advantage of the "twelfth man," or fan support, as Andean began playing home soccer games at Father Vincent Eckert Stadium. The team's offense, powered by Daniel Grosch, German exchange student, and MVP, Tim Pliske, was backed up by a much improved defense which included MIP Mike Parish. An attitude of determination enabled the team to come from behind to beat Griffith, Highland, and Valparaiso. A 2-1 victory over area power Portage highlighted a great season.

GOLF

PUTTIN' ON THE RITZ

For what Coach John Szot expected to be a rebuilding year, the boys' golf team ended its 11-11 season with good results. The highlight of the regular season was a 165-167 win over Portage, one of the best teams in the area. In sectionals, Andrean received a respectable fifth place; the team missed qualifying for regionals by a mere four points, but showed its ability to stay in contention. At the Rensselaer Invationals, sophomore Pamorn Kulsakdinun won a second place medal, which made him a shoo-in for the Most Valuable Player award. Most Improved Player awards were given to junior Pat Conlon and senior Dan Doherty.

With five seniors on the twelve-member girls' track team, experience produced excellence for a successful season.

"I can't take much of the credit, though," said Coach Iatarola. "The girls did all the work."

Among those who contributed to the team's success were freshman Tricia Van Slyke, winner of the Most Improved Player award, junior Kristen Laskowski, Most Valuable Athlete, and senior Heidi Rogovich, who earned the Most Valuable award for field events.

WELL- QUALIFIED

Under the direction of Coach Billick, the boys' varsity track team ended its season with a strong 6-2 record. The Niners also had a good showing in sectionals with fourteen qualifiers. Despite a mid-season injury, senior Eric Turner qualified for seven sectional events and was named the team's Most Valuable Athlete. Tim Mihalik, who runs well in both the low and high hurdles, received Most Valuable Runner recognition. Jeff Novorita, whose forte is the high jump, was named Most Valuable in Field Events. Both juniors scored firsts and broke records throughout the season. Most Improved Players in Running and Field Events, respectively, were Gerry Humphrey and Tom Puscak.

LOWER RIGHT: Amy Reed makes a smashing return.

KLORA FORM ... It's a Gas

The girls' tennis team capped off its season with a successful 14-6 record. Coach Klora commented, "Even though we had a slow start— we lost our first four matches — we rallied to win ten of our last eleven." Leading the team in this comeback were Most Valuable Player Kathleen Milbrath and Most Improved Player Amy Reed. The team carried its momentum into sectional play, winning decisive victories over Crown Point and Lowell. In the final round, though, they lost to archrival Merrillville. "We played our best," Coach Klora said. "It was a great season."

Breakin' Away

Ignoring the calls to help with spring cleaning or the need to recuperate from late nights working on term papers, students visited foreign lands and spoke foreign languages during spring break. Families at home received postcards of the familiar sights of Rome, Paris, and London. Other students decided to take advantage of cold weather in the West to ski. Of course, Florida was not excluded from spring break plans.

Class Acts

Armageddon, one of Andrean's most popular traditions, allows classes to compete in a scaled-down-to-size Olympic manner. Students participated in events ranging from Trivial Pursuit® to dodgeball, an annual favorite.

The spirit of Armageddon began long before the actual events. Classes competed for the Spirit Award during the week which preceded Armageddon. Each day had a different theme: Hawaiian Day, Class Colors Day, Clash-Military Day, Dress-Up Day, and Red and Gold Day, and students dressed accordingly.

The games officially began at the assembly on May 17 when student council president, Jeff Attar, and senior class vice president, Carrie LaMere, ignited the flame. An explosive tug-of-war ended the two-day competition.

Seniors captured first place in the games with a score of 66. Freshmen came in second with 58 points. Sophomores placed third with a score of 54, while juniors came in last with 49 points.

Before we even realize it, another school year has come to an end. The time has come for us to move on to greater challenges and to reach for higher goals. Our experiences during this past year will enable us to one day fulfill our dreams. Our faith in God will permit us to meet difficult challenges and to overcome them. The knowledge that we have gained will enable us to succeed in whatever field we choose. We can do anything because we are special. We are unique among others. We are Niners. We are Andrean.
